BERNIE'S TRIP

Bright and early one crisp November morning in 1969 one of the Matthews and Armstrong Transcontinental buses, nicknamed "Bernie," commences its journey from Seattle, Washington—destination New Bern, North Carolina. Max and Bobby, in order to pick up the members of the Senior Class of '49 for the homecoming of '69, plan to stop in almost every country of the world.

First stop for our amphibious bus is at a nearby logging camp on the Columbia River in Washington State where we pick up Robert Broadstreet and Corky Wheeler, two of our nation's foremost logging experts.

Joining us at the corner of Hollywood and Vine in Los Angeles are Patty Shipp, who is dancing star at the Copacabana, and her fashion designer Phylis Kelly. Also meeting us here is Sonny Russell, head football coach at U. C. L. A.

Continuing down to the banks of the Rio Grande, we stop at the "Rest (if you can) Home," which is under the capable guidance of Nurses Dot Pugh and Phoebe Webster. Along with the supervisors come via stretcher Patsy Brinson, Cookie Cook, Catherine Wike, Kathryn Maxwell, and Margaret Dunn, who collapsed immediately after the BRUN went to press and who have been on an extended rest cure here since.

In Managua, Nicaragua we pick up Ernie Mitchell, who is graciously supplying enough bananas from his plantation to provide banana splits for the remainder of the trip.

Rolling smoothly down to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, our bus is boarded by Walter Ange. "Herkey" is now manager of the A&P Stores of South America, with his home office in Rio.

Over in Argentina we find Bishop and Louise contentedly farming. Most of their problems are "little ones."

We are greeted in Hawaii by Cecelia Samia, the official hostess of the islands, who presents each visitor with a lei.

Moving to the Midway Island, better known as "Beck's Pacific Drive-In," we pick up Kelly.

Cruising down to New Zealand, our happy throng is joined by Ronald Smith and Beau Bremer, who are perfecting a supersonic radio beam carrier.

Skipping over to Australia, we acquire the presence of Joe Lyerly, Billy Brinkley, and Charles Boyle. These men are completing a cross between a kangaroo and an Australian goat.

Wilton Block is taking snaps of all his old classmates to be published in the New York Times—editor Neta Whitty. Wilton joined us in Borneo.

At the Marine Air Station in Shanghai, Marine wives Betty Lou Fales, Theda Davis, Frances Beacham, Pug Dixon, and Louise Brown fill their reserved seats.

While we continue over to Russia, everyone begins to mingle in the pool room and bar of the bus. Managing the pool room is Joe "behind the eight ball" Mann. Taking care of the drinks are Ed Moore and Hilton McDaniel. While talking, everyone recalls the fun we had in '49—especially do we remember that historical occasion—the arrival of the first New Bern High Athletic Bus. We all agree that this was indeed a long awaited moment and a joyous occasion.

From Siberia come Pat Hall and Joyce Daniels, who have been trying to raise standards of living in this vast territory. Also in this region we find Virginia Daniels, a medical worker, and Celia Lively, who has been gathering facts and pictures for a big story in Life. This magazine is edited by none other than our own Bok Miller.

In Moscow Mary Livesay and Sarah Holton leave their diplomatic duties to make the important trip to New Bern. These two have contributed much through their negotiations to the lasting peace of the world.

In the American Zone of Berlin we discover Nell Parker, Joyce Land, Margaret Nichols, and Gladys Scott, who are managing one of the best U. S. O's in the world. They are providing us with coffee for the rest of the trip.

Down in Bagdad we hail Peggy Reeves. She is now owner of the A. & E. C. Railroad (African and Egyptian Coastline.) She informs us that Sara Dillahunt is organizing B. T. U.'s in the Belgian Congo, so we continue on for her.

Heading northwest we pause at the Cape Verde Islands so that Dot Rawls and Rita Habib might climb aboard. They have been doing social work here. They direct us to Dorothy Harrell who, inspired by her geography teacher, Mr. J. Smith, has been diving for the lost city of Atlantis.

Basking in the Mediterranean sun are found Dorothy Barber and Joline Garner. They leave behind their sun lotion and join us for the trip.

In the fashion center of the world (Paris, that is) we hail Joyce Holton, a model, Betty Roundtree, a French interpreter at the American Embassy, and Charlotte Merrit, a specialist in French hairdos.

On our way to Wales, we pick up Althene Butts and Janice Arthur who are office workers in the big city of London. In Wales we are joined by Shirley Johnston who is running a factory for the manufacture of angora sweaters.

On a tulip farm in Holland we find Elsie Herring and Hazel Gray, who have transplanted our Southern hospitality to Holland.

Dot Sellers leaves her task of finding out what is "rotten in the state of Denmark" to make the trip with us. Dot directs us to Oslo, Norway, where Wilma Seebers is a well-known figure skater.

Heading west on our circle of the globe, we near North America, pausing in Iceland to pick up Lewis Baker who is a missionary here.

From Canada comes Fred Taylor, who is introducing the sport of basketball on ice skates.

Returning to the United States, our first stop is on a Connecticut farm where we pick up Dorothy Ireland.

In New York City we are greeted by Johnny Connally, head athletic coach at Cornell; Dottie Allen, who is on Broadway; Sue Culpepper, who is a famous dancer; and Marie Dixon, who is now playing on the American All-Star Women's Basketball team at Madison Square Garden.

Speeding down to Baltimore, we journey to Johns Hopkins, where we find the famous surgeon, Dr. Louis Daniel waiting for us. He is accompanied by his receptionist, Jane Coble.

Hustling down to Washington, D. C., we discover Billy May on the Capitol steps delivering one of his popular oratorical masterpieces.

Our time is growing short, so we must rush on to Cleveland, Ohio, in order to get Meredith Smaw, who is now a prominent beauty councillor. Meredith has recently put Richard Hudnut out of business. Uzie Broadstreet and Christine Bland are in charge of one of his branch offices in Sioux City, Iowa. Uzie sells Smaw products, while Christine takes care of appointments.

Stationed on Lake Michigan is Sue Ann Harman, a major WAC in the service of her Country.

Meeting us in Minneapolis, Minn. are DeLena Hughes, who interrupts her nationwide tour to go to New Bern; and Virginia Lokey, who has recently joined the Six-Footer Club. Perhaps DeLena will honor us with some songs on our journey.

In Omaha, Nebraska, as we gaze wistfully into a jewelry store window, we are greeted by Franklin Atkinson and Robert Phillips.

Beyond the hills in Idaho we find Jack Casey busily farming potatoes.

Scooting down to Texas we stop at "Ross's Hosses," a ranch owned by our friend Allen. Helping him on the ranch are Betty Perry and Ruth Atkinson.

Sarah Barker is now living in New Orleans, where she takes a major part each year in the Mardi Gras.

Continuing to Georgia, we are hailed by Frank Moore, who is raising Georgia peaches (draw your own conclusions.)

Our amphibious bus now sails over to Bermuda where Lucille Quinn and Barbara Moore are vacationing. Nearing our destination, we stop in western North Carolina, where Pete Ornsby is professor of Romance Languages at Davidson (romance, that is!)

We are greeted in New Bern by Billy Jones, who is turning his hotel over to our disposal. His secretaries Jane DeBruhl and Marie McCaffty accompany him.

Joyce Smith and Betty MacWillis hail us. Joyce has written a history thesis which is long enough and a book which suits Mrs. Smallwood. Alas and alack! Mrs. Smallwood didn't get to use it for Betty Mac is now teaching U. S. History in her place.

Margaret Slade and Cherry Trader are missed, but we are told that they will join us later. They are busily engaged in bringing the planes safely in. Maybe they will take us on a tour of the air tower at Cherry Point during our week-end.

We are informed that Buddy Ireland's orchestra will be playing for the homecoming dance.

We are looking forward to the game and the entire week-end with great expectations.

READ
THIS . . .
you decide on your profession

DURING the next six years, half a million teaching positions will be available in the United States. Thousands of men and women are needed to replace inadequately prepared teachers now in the schools, to fill the vacancies caused by normal turnover, and to meet the needs of the five million additional children born during wartime. There is a need for elementary and high school teachers, college instructors, principals, superintendents, and educational specialists of every kind.

Now you know the law of supply and demand. When your kind of training and ability are needed, offers for it are made more and more attractive.

That is what's happening in the teaching profession. Many communities are taking steps to improve their local school conditions—some are granting salary increases—North Carolina has established a definite minimum salary schedule for teachers.

The ability to teach is a special gift, a valued talent, and no profession provides greater personal satisfaction than teaching. If you are a "born teacher"—make your decision now to join this honored profession. For "Our Teachers Mold Our Nation's Future," and America's future has need of you.
